Publishing a reading list makes it viewable to students. To simplify the publishing process and make reading list management easier for instructors, the library will publish all reading lists that it receives. Once a reading list is sent to the library, instructors will need to do nothing else in order to publish the list to students.